

Supplementary Figure #1: Relationship between overlap frequency and (A) mean distance between genes and (B) percent of genome that codes for proteins. The lack of significant correlations suggests that overlapping genes are not the direct result of pressure to reduce sequence length and genome size.