

Figure S2. Estimates of genomic parameters among pairs of Darwin's finch species. The two species in each pair are denoted X (species name in blue) and Y (species name in green). Five panels from top to bottom represent nucleotide diversity in species X and Y, Tajima's D in species X and Y, fixed differences between species X and Y. Significance is tested with Wilcoxon rank sum test. *, $P < 0.05$.