

Figure S1

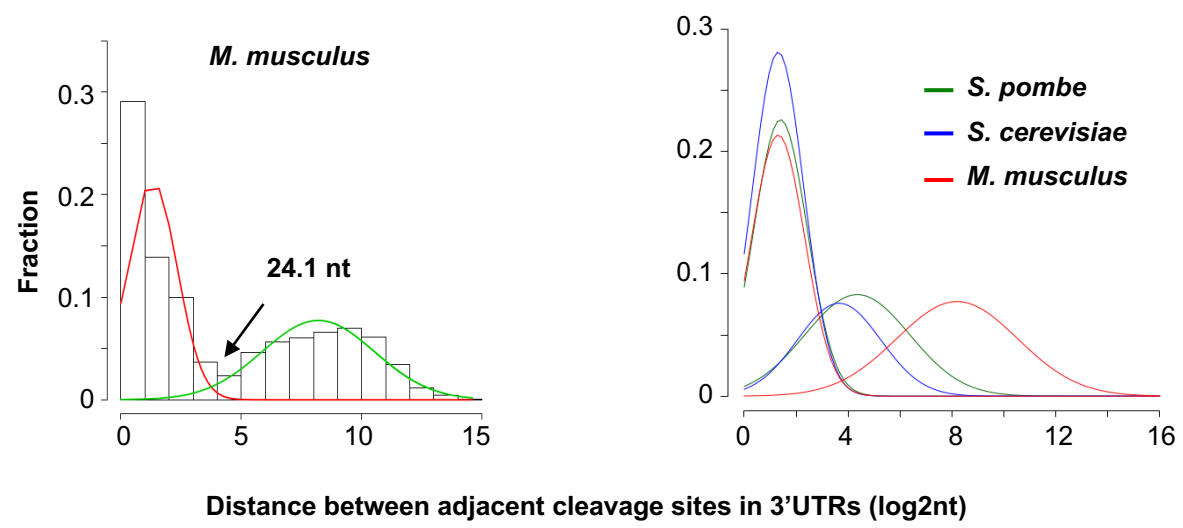

Figure S1. Two distribution modes were identified by using the maximum expectation method (see Methods for detail). The mouse data was used as a control to validate the method and parameters (Left). Data for three species were plotted together (Right). See figure legend of Figure 1C for detail.